

BRUSSELS BRIEF

07/2014

Upcoming event: "Venezuela: Chance for Change?", 28 April

Ever since Maduro's first year in office, Venezuela has experienced urban violence and shortages of basic goods. Since February 4th, after the sexual assault of a student, protests started on a university campus near the Colombian border.

Pro-Europeans challenged by the rise of extremist populism

Populist parties claim that they are the only ones who care about people's preoccupations while the elites are deemed to be solely motivated by their own interests. This simplistic rhetoric has seduced more and more Europeans.

The dream of Arab Unity has clashed with the realities of Arab divisiveness

Turmoil and social unrest in the Arab world are entering their fourth year. Many of the issues that triggered the "Arabellion" remain unresolved, some even worsened and the region continues to be split by tensions between Sunni and Shia, secular liberals and islamists, and governments and civil society.
